

Dem. Congressional Convention.
The Democratic Convention for the Tenth Congressional District will be held at Huntington on Wednesday, May 28th.

Allen County Dem. Convention.
Will be held at the Court-house in Fort Wayne, on Saturday, May 24th.

The Fort Wayne Sentinel.
SATURDAY, MAY 17, 1851.

REMOVAL.
The office of the Sentinel has been Removed to the corner of Pearl and Calhoun streets, Third Story, over Wall's Drug Store.

Mr. V. B. PALMER, Tribune Buildings
New York; Third and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia; and Scollay's Building, Boston, is Sole Agent for the Sentinel in those cities; and is authorized to receive subscriptions, advertisements, &c. on our account.

The Fruit.—The severe cold weather we experienced on the first of the present month has severely injured the fruit. In some places it is entirely destroyed, and in others much injured—so that the probability is, we shall have but a scanty supply this season.

In the south, the damage was still greater than here. Papers in the southern parts of this state and Ohio represent the fruit in those regions as entirely destroyed. The frost was also experienced still further south, and much damage has been done to the tobacco and cotton.

BREAK IN THE CANAL.—The heavy rain on Sunday and Monday last caused a serious break in the canal, at Lewisburgh Bluffs, seven miles east of Logansport. The culvert there was washed out, and some thirty or forty feet of the bank carried away. A strong force was immediately engaged to repair the damage, and it is expected that boats will be enabled to pass by to-morrow or Monday.

Music.—We direct the attention of those who have a taste for music to the advertisement of Prince & Co's. Melodons, in another column. The sweetness of its tone, beauty of its finish, and its unparalleled cheapness, have given it a wide spread popularity wherever it has been introduced. The smaller sized can be had for $45—a price that brings it within reach of all classes, and enables them to enjoy the luxury of music in their homes. We are authorized to receive orders for them, and will deliver them here at manufacturers' prices.

The Allen Co. Democratic Convention
Assembles next Saturday. We hope all the delegates may be present; that each may be animated by a patriotic desire to nominate capable and efficient candidates; and that they may select such a ticket as will be worthy the unanimous support of the democratic party, and acceptable to the citizens of the county generally.

A great responsibility rests upon this convention, as from the great assembly of the democratic party in this county, a nomination—of a suitable person—may be considered equivalent to an election. Care therefore should be taken to nominate such candidates only as will be acceptable to the whole party, a certain of receiving its entire vote. In this way alone can we hope to secure the steadfast adherence of the party to the convention system.

If our conventions should nominate incapable men, or men who have not invariably sustained the principles and usages of the party, many democrats would feel under no obligations to vote for them; our party would become disorganized; feuds and contentions would naturally arise; and we might be defeated, notwithstanding our numerical strength.

At this time it is essential that our best men should be in nomination, especially for the offices of County Commissioner and Representative. We look upon the office of County Commissioner as the most important one we have to fill. Upon judgment and business qualifications the property of the county, the judicious management of its affairs, and the economical expenditure of the large amount we are yearly taxed, are a great measure depend; and now that the county is about to incur a heavy debt to secure the construction of our railroad, it is particularly necessary that a man of good sound judgment, liberal views, and business habits should be selected. The office, we know, is not one that is likely to be sought by such men as ought to fill it; but it will be the duty of the convention to endeavor to find a suitable man, and present him to the people.

The next session of the Legislature will be the most important one that has ever been held in the state. The new constitution will come into operation, and an entire new system will have to be prepared and adopted; all laws now in force will be abolished; uniform systems of township and county business will have to be devised; our laws and the practice of the courts—the entire judicial system—will have to be simplified, reformed, and rendered in consonance with the progress of the age. In short, all the reforms provided for by the new constitution will have to be carried into effect. The next Legislature will therefore be an important body than the convention which framed the constitution, and should therefore be composed of the very best men in the state. We do hope, for the credit of Allen County, that it may be represented by a man every way qualified to discharge the high duties which will devolve upon him, and be an honor to his constituency—and such a man we earnestly trust the democratic convention may select for nomination.

Delegates will also have to be appointed by this convention to attend the District convention to nominate a candidate for Congress. In the selection of these delegates care should be taken to send such men as will act with a view to the harmony and success of the party, and faithfully reflect the feelings of the county in their choice of a candidate.

To this end, we would recommend that instead of preparing separate tickets composed of the friends of the several aspirants, the convention nominate a delegation of good faithful delegates, without regard to their personal feelings in favor of those candidates, and then instruct them to vote for such candidates as, on a ballot, should be found to be the choice of the county. Let a ballot be taken directly for member of Congress, the one receiving the greatest number of votes be declared the first choice of the county, and the one receiving the next highest number the second choice; instruct the delegates and have them pledged to vote accordingly. By this course all ill feeling and rivalry would be avoided, and the feelings of the county would be faithfully represented in the District convention.

In conclusion we hope our convention next Saturday may be fully attended; that harmony and good feeling may characterize its deliberations; and that it may nominate for us a good, capable, and thoroughly democratic ticket. If they do this we may confidently count upon its ratification by the people, and triumphant election next August.

ICE CREAM.—The weather is now getting warm enough to make this article a most grateful luxury; and those who wish to taste it in perfection should call in at S. M. Black & Co's. corner of Calhoun and Berry Streets. They have got two saloons fitted up in the nearest and most comfortable style—a private entrance for ladies at the west end of the establishment, on Berry Street. All kinds of cakes, confectionary and other dainties can also be had here.

They have also just received a fresh supply of Family groceries.

Those in want of good serviceable Goods will find an excellent assortment at C. A. Grey's Old Store, south side of Columbia Street. He does not go quite so deeply into the fancies as some of his neighbors, but in plain useful articles he can't be beat. His goods are always of the best, and it appears to us that he generally sells a little cheaper than those who make the loudest cry of cheapness. He has just got on a larger and better stock than usual.

J. A. COLERICK has just received his spring supply of Fancy Confectionary, Fruits, Groceries, &c., which (as is always the case) consists of the very best articles in that line. In selecting his stock he shows a nice appreciation of the tastes of his customers; accordingly, we always find the finest Candies, the freshest fruits, the choicest groceries, and the nicest pickles, pickled oysters and lobsters, &c. on his shelves. This fact and the additional one that he is still single, and remarkably attentive and courteous to the fairer portion of his customers, appears to be getting pretty well understood by the ladies, most of whom, we notice, patronize his establishment.

Next week his Soda Fountain will be in operation. He informs us that he has been making some additions and improvements to his apparatus, and is determined this season to prepare an article that cannot be surpassed this side the Atlantic.

We have not thought it necessary to mention his Cigars in this puff. He has however a choice lot, and those who feel disposed can puff them for themselves, which will no doubt be more satisfactory than all the puffing we could give them.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—A Sermon for Young Men, will be preached next Lord's day, at 3 o'clock P. M., at the 2d Presbyterian Church. Subject—Adornment in Life, and its Secret. Fort Wayne, May 18.

THE POCKET COMPANION.—By Mechanics, Mechanics, and Engineers.—BY OLIVER BYRNE, Editor of the Dictionary of Machines and Mechanics, &c., Professor of Mathematics in the College of Civil Engineers, London, &c. Pocket Form. Tucks, Gilt edges. Price $1. DAVENPORT, Publishers, Tribune Buildings, New York. So far as we can judge of such subjects, this appears to be a most useful and valuable work for Mechanics, Machinists, &c. The great object of the author seems to have been to make the work eminently practical,—and to condense the most information into the smallest space. It is illustrated with three steel engravings of Steam Engines—the Steamboat, the Locomotive, and the Stationary Engine, with all the parts pointed out and explained by numbers; a great number of useful tables and calculations, and a full and convenient summary of all that is useful to practical men and students.

Sears' New and Complete History of China and India. Pictorial and Descriptive. ROBERT SEARS, Publisher, 128 Nassau Street, New York.

Mr. Sears has published several popular pictorial works, but this last one far surpasses all its predecessors, both in typographical neatness and beauty of engravings, and in the interesting nature of its contents. It is in fact one of the most delightful and readable works it has fallen to our lot to peruse for a long time. It gives not only a history and description of the country, but also of the manners and customs of this singular people—their amusements, religion, education, literature, architecture, arts, manufactures, &c. It is a charming family book, calculated at once to interest and instruct the youthful reader. It is illustrated by 200 spirited engravings, contains 592 large octavo pages, and is published at the low price of $2 50.

CROMWELL.
Fort Wayne, May 14.

Judge Thurston, Delegate from Oregon, died on board the California, and was buried at Acapulco.

From the Upper Sandusky Pioneer.

Our Railroad.
To those of this county who desire a direct communication with the East by a Railroad that is open during the year, we are glad to announce that the prospect is improving daily.

The Rail Road from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh is being pushed through with great energy. It will be the best built Road, and will have lower grades than the N. Y. & Erie or Baltimore and Road.

From Pittsburgh to Crestline the Road is being constructed rapidly. The grading from Pittsburgh to Wooster is well advanced, the timber cleared, and the lay of iron is begun. From Wooster to Crestline the work is shortly to be let to contractors, and much of the grading is to be done this season.

The third link in the great chain of Rail Road from Philadelphia to the Mississippi River, is our own "Ohio and Indiana Railroad," from Crestline through Upper Sandusky to Fort Wayne, and on to 130. It is delayed caused by the injunction in Crawford and Wyandott counties has prevented the letting of contracts which would have been done last Fall, and although we have reliable prospects of the entire amount of stock needed to prepare the whole Road for the superstructure, still we cannot be relieved from the injunction before the one term of Court.

A meeting was held at Patterson on the 1st inst., representing all parts of the line, to discuss the propriety of early and active operations, and resulted in a unanimous determination to build the Road. The fact of an East and West Road being built in Ohio is startling to all whose interests in the North and South are concerned. Their decided opposition from the moment it left Pittsburgh until it reached the Mad River Road, and will continue to do so at each step of its progress onward to the Mississippi. It will go on to the Mississippi.

OHIO AND INDIANA RAILROAD.—The prospects of this important work are now very flattering. All the counties along the line have voted to take their share of stock, except Van Wert, and that county will hold an election for that purpose, in June. If Van Wert votes for the Railroad, of which there is scarcely any doubt, the whole amount of stock to grade and bridge the road will be secured, and the whole line, from Crestline to Fort Wayne, will be put under contract. The Engineers are busily at work locating the road, and the probabilities are now that the road will be let in July, and the work will be finished by the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad is completed to Crestline.—Pitt's Gaz.

The Railroad.—A second instalment of British Iron was brought up by the steamer Washington, last week, and landed here for the use of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad. We observe also that large quantities of sills and cross ties have been distributed along the line, for which the track will now soon be ready. The work of laying down the timbers was commenced last week, near Haystack, in Allegany county, and will soon follow. In every department the work is and will be pushed forward with vigor; and we anticipate with confidence the running of cars to Pittsburgh in the month of July.—Beaver Argus.

Great Discovery.—The English Railway Times has the following:

The decomposition of water has at length been obtained, and that at merely nominal cost, and with unerring precision. This great discovery, originating in America, has been perfected by the experiments of an eminent German chemist, and patented in the three kingdoms by Mr. Shepard. The carburetted hydrogen may be formed in any quantity, while possessing an illuminating power equal to that of coal gas, is capable of being itself applied to the same purposes as steam at a remarkably low pressure. It is also capable of producing an amount of caloric equal to that of live coal, and consequently well adapted to be used as a combustible agent in the conversion of water into steam. This tremendous power has been for some time engaged the attention of our most eminent engineers, and will, when sufficiently tested, be expected to supersede the use of steam. It is successful as there is every present appearance of being, the revolution it must effect in the economic working of railways, and indeed in every branch of trade and manufacture where steam is employed as a motive power, is altogether incalculable. It almost opens to the wonder-gaze the Utopian vista in which unskilled manual labor shall be no longer necessary. It is sufficient for us to state that several of the leading railway companies are in treaty with the patentee, and that, consequently, if anything whatever is capable of being made out of the discovery, the railway interest will possess at once the first benefit and chief honor in its realization.

Another Gas Discovery.—Mr. Paine, who claims to have invented a method of producing light and heat by the combustion of water, not satisfied with the discovery, has hit upon a still cheaper and more abundant fuel.

Although the patent of the hydro electric light has been secured, Mr. Paine has not remitted his investigations, and at last has discovered a process of catalysing the oxygen of the atmosphere, and rendering it highly luminiferous at a mere nominal expense, without the cost of machinery, or any other apparatus than an air receiver, capable of holding common air. We saw it in operation last evening in our office, examined it minutely; catalysed the oxygen itself, and read by the light so produced, which is equal, if not superior, to the best gas burned in the cities. This flame is peculiarly bright and brilliant, burns with a clear steady light, is entirely indurible, and during the half hour that we watched its operation, we could see no consumption of the catalysing material. The whole apparatus, which we saw, could not have cost more than a couple of dollars, and it was capable of furnishing all the light needed for the illumination of an ordinary sized room.

Mr. Paine is now announcing new and highly important discoveries, but it so happens that only a few favored ones are permitted to see or test them. If they are as important as represented why does not Mr. Paine have them at once introduced to the public?—New Albany Ledger.

The Cuban Expedition.—Arrest of the Principals in New York.—Suspicious affair every way.

The Cuban expeditions, or an attempt to get up an expedition in New York city, has failed, and the purpose of the expedition is frustrated. Six of the principal men engaged in the affair were arrested in New York city on Saturday, by the United States Marshal. Their names are, John L. O'Sullivan, (son-in-law of Dr. Berney Rogers), Wm. T. Rogers, (nephew of Dr. Rogers), Capt. Lewis, captain of the steamboat Cleopatra, and several others. The expedition was to be organized by Major Lewis Schlesinger, an old resident of New York city, and Pedro Sanchez a Spaniard. The manner in which the arrests of these parties was brought about, is rather curious and novel. The New York letter to the Philadelphia Inquirer thus relates it and other matters:

"Among the Deputy Marshals is one by the name of Rakielewicz, a Polish refugee. The authorities ascertained that there was a number of suspicious looking characters congregated at S. M. Rakielewicz was directed to put on the garb of a newly arrived German emigrant, go down to South Amboy, mingle with the suspicious characters there, if possible, obtain information that would lead to the discovery of the plotters of the expedition, if such expedition had been formed. He succeeded admirably, and he result was the arrest of the above named parties.

There was a great deal of absurdity connected with the expedition which was headed by Lepore, but not a thousandth part so much as we have this. There is no doubt that the steamboat Cleopatra was chartered for the use of the expeditionists, but a more unfortunate looking craft for such a purpose, was never seen. Many of your readers know her, and no doubt have traveled in her. A number of years ago she ran on the Sound on the Boston route. She continued in that service until she was used up, and the man who would now go twenty miles to sea in her, would be considered as fool-hardy to the last degree. A schooner which was purchased for the occasion is not much better. With these two crafts, containing a few hundred Germans and other foreigners, the Cuban expedition was to be launched, and despite a Spanish army of twenty thousand Spanish soldiers, the island of Cuba was to be wrested from Spain, and appropriated.

We are very much inclined to think that the whole affair was a swindle, from beginning to end—that it was got up for the purpose of making some show of the expenditure of large sums of money forwarded by the malcontents in Cuba, and that some of the parties engaged in it, and what is more, engaged in spending the money, informed on themselves indirectly, of the Cuban matter, and the expedition would have started, but for the interference of the United States authorities. Other parties will be arrested to-morrow."

The Sunday Herald, speaking of these arrests, &c., says:

"All these persons were held to bail, each in the sum of $3,000, to answer the charges against them. During the day the Marshal applied for a detachment of marines to take charge of the steamboat Cleopatra. Commodore Salter forthwith granted the request. A detachment was forwarded, and the vessel is now under their charge, lying at the foot of North Moore street."

Gen Lane in California.

The Shasta City correspondent of the Sacramento Times writes as follows, in relation to the gallant hero at whom some of our Indiana whig politicians affect to sneer and turn up their noses:

"Among the last who left these dignified for the cause of the Union, General Lane has six men to work for him—he has been doing very well on Olney's creek, about four miles from this place; but he has caught the Scott river fever, and started yesterday. When he quits Scott river he will return to Oregon and close up his business, and then he will start for California. The General looks well, has long bushy hair like the rest of us miners, but his chin is kept shaved; he wears a red flannel shirt, and a short pea jacket of the coarsest texture. Indeed he is a very plain man; his conversational powers are of a superior quality; he is selected a crowd for hours at a time, in giving his views on the various subjects of the day. He should and would not do for California and her miners. His views on these subjects are sound, and although a Simon pure whig, myself I should have rejoiced had our wise men of San Jose, in the plenitude of their wisdom selected him as our next U. S. Senator. He has been among us nearly a year, laboring hard all the time, and has seen our Indian difficulties, and is emphatically one of the people—one of the miners upon whose success depends all the greatness of California. But he has not himself sought to be a Senator, therefore the true interests of the miners are in his sight, and some man will probably be elected who knows more about the actual wants of this part of our population, than a man who has never been here. In conversing with Gen. Lane a day or two since, upon the subject of the numerous Indian outrages that are being constantly committed, he said: 'Let Congress arm a thousand California citizens with revolvers, and let each man be furnished with a first rate horse a good rifle and a pair of Colt's large revolvers, and a pair of Colt's five shooters. Let this regiment be divided into companies; and have those companies at different parts of the mines, under the command of suitable officers, and let them be armed with the best of arms. Let plenty of barley and hay be fed to the horses, the men always kept in good order and ready in an hour to mount and charge on the red scoundrels, and his word for it the Indian difficulties would soon cease.' Those who volunteer, he says, should be paid well, and he would warrant that Old Hays would do the business better than any other men on earth could whip. He is down on Fremont's bill, which sends the government collectors around among the miners. He endorses the plan of selling the land in small quantities. But enough of this."

Rescued on a Large Scale.—We regret to say, says the Washington Republic, that the following paragraph and letter, which we copy from the New York Express, speak the unexaggerated truth:

CALIFORNIA.—An Indian War.—We have been receiving deplorable accounts of Lynch law in California, indicating a very depraved state of public morals there; but private letters received here now, to show us something worse than even these Lynch law executions. We invite public attention to a letter, which we will add, in publishing it, from a highly respectable gentleman, in a position to be well informed, and of whose veracity there can be no question.

Extract from a letter from California.
"One class of the politicians—the dirty one—about the State government, is preparing, and working out, indeed, one of the most nefarious schemes of robbery that has ever been devised. They have determined on an Indian war, to be carried on by the State itself, but to be ultimately paid for out of the Federal treasury. They are raising troops at an immense cost; the private to receive five dollars a day and their allowances; a major, increasing in the upper grades; and so on, receiving more than double the pay of a major general. Bodies of the militia are to be called out; some, indeed, are ordered and sent to points now perfectly tranquil; to the Gila, for example, where there are three companies of regulars and no settlers, and the Indians entirely quiet and satiated under their protection. While these troops are being raised, and even the regulars of the Indians are provoking retaliation that must inevitably bring on a war; for we cannot expect the savage to be more just and discriminating in his revenge than the civilized man."

"As the State has no money, the whole of these enormous expenditures are to be paid by State bonds; an, although an assiduous collector of the State taxes, called in the service of the United States, and the expenses thus thrown on the General Government, this would not suit the plunders; they intend to flood the country with bonds, depress them to five cents on the dollar, buy them up, and receive from Congress their full amount in a law appropriating money for the frontier from Indians. This plan was concocted in Washington, suggested by the Texas bond speculation, brought on here, and is now in course of execution by sending troops to the frontier; a band of lawless marauders, who have no respect even for their own laws, as they will see in an account of their recent murder of a man of State civil office. I do not see how their plan can be frustrated, for they express a perfect conviction that 'Congress will foot the bill.'"

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.
The Charleston Session.—The Great Convention, &c.—Next Monday is the day fixed for the Convention of delegates from the State Rights Associations of the several districts of the Charleston Convention. The question to be agitated and decided is whether it is expedient for South Carolina to secede immediately from the Union or await the cooperation of other Southern States. The party in favor of separate State action and immediate secession seems to be very active and decided. This convention will, through the Convention in Charleston. These proceedings will be looked to with greater interest now that political anti-slavery has achieved such signal triumphs by the election of its pledged representatives to the U. S. Senate from several leading States. The facts that the candidates who were opposed by Southern national men, both of the democratic and whig parties, were nevertheless elected, from Massachusetts, New York, and Ohio, will be used with great effect by those who apprehend future assaults on Southern rights.

Foreign Intelligence.
The Easter Festival, in Paris, interpreted a brief check to the political intrigues of French parties. Guizot has entered the stage again, undertaking, with Count Mole, the editorship of the Assemblée Nationale. He is also candidate for the representation of the Landes.

The Assembly responded on the 24th. A motion for allowing newspapers to be sold and distributed in the streets was negatively by 403 to 329. Another motion for prohibiting the same, was adopted without a division. The uncertain state of political affairs causes complete stagnation of business at the Bourse, and the market is again lower. Fives opened 92.20, closed 92.50. Three closed 57.

Germany.—From Germany we hear nothing but of measures symptomatic of the consolidation of the old federal alliance; the ancient order seems to be restored, Prince Metternich returns to Vienna with great honor. Various reports are current about the condition of Austria has insisted on, in the reconstruction of the German Diet, among which are mentioned—a general union Customs system and a uniform establishment of schools and colleges. It is also intended to create an army of 135,000 men, for the express purpose of upholding monarchial interests, representing future revolutions.

Austria and Turkey.—A diplomatic quarrel has broken out between the Austrian Empire and the Sultan of Turkey, which has led to the withdrawal of the minister of the former from Constantinople. The Sultan has given notice by declaring that he will not retain any longer Kossuth and the other Hungarian generals—the period of one year, during which he promised, at Lord Palmerston's suggestion, to keep them in safe custody, having now expired.

He also sends a bill to Austria for the expenses of their maintenance, and of guarding the frontiers. He complains that the Austrian influence has fomented the rebellion in his Bohemian provinces. The said insurrectionary papers are now to be pretty well subdued by Omer Pasha; except a few thousand of the rebels, since the last great battle, have rallied at Bitau.

The French government has addressed a note to the cabinet of London, requiring the expulsion of Ledru-Rollin and other French refugees, whose faculties of communication with Paris and the departments, are found exceedingly embarrassing to the French Government.

A news of the joint protest of the English and French governments against the Austro-German occupation of Tuscany by the Austrian troops is confirmed. Balassorini, the prime minister, is negotiating an offensive and defensive league between Naples, Rome, Tuscany, Parma, and Modena.

A N. Y. merchant sent $120 worth of goods to California and sold them for $333.50—about 400 per cent. profit, less the charges. The charges, however, for freight, storage, commission, &c., amounted to just $333.36, being 14 cents net proceeds, which with 36 cents net of good money was swallowed up in paying the 50 cents postage on the account of sales! Let's all go to California.

Pittsburgh, May 3.
Steamer Webster, Capt. Samuel Reno took fire yesterday afternoon, and burnt to water's edge, at the head of Island 66, 110 miles above Vicksburg.

Fire first discovered and alarm given about 3 o'clock, and almost immediately, the boat was enveloped in flames. The Pilot, Mr. Rockman, to whom much credit is due, having charge of the wheel, immediately succeeded to round her to shore and partly succeeded. The flames finally drove him from his post, and the boat becoming unmanageable, floated along, depriving the passengers from their first and last hope of safety. At the first alarm, a rescue was commenced, and it is now difficult to describe. The burning boat from which the flame issued in all directions, became terrible in the extreme. Many ran into the flames, while others ran to the side of the boat, and clinging to it until driven away by the flame; they finally threw themselves into the current.

It was with difficulty that the females were saved, many being separated from their husbands and friends, 12 or 15 jumped from the boat and saved their lives by clinging to the flags until they were rescued by the boats from the shore.

The inhabitants on shore sent out 3 or 4 boats, and saved several lives. About 100 passengers and crew of whom about 60 only can be found the rest is supposed to have perished with the boat, among whom Capt. Reno and wife were lost.

Funeral of Archbishop Eccleston.—The imposing ceremony of consigning the remains of the late Archbishop Eccleston to their last resting place took place in Baltimore, on Saturday morning. The body was removed to the Cathedral, escorted by a solemn procession of the suffragan bishops of the archdiocese, and a great number of priests of the Catholic church. The suffragan bishops, (whose duty it will be to elect a new archbishop,) are Kendrick, of Philadelphia, 3d Conner, of Pittsburgh, Reynolds, of Charleston, Whelan, of Wheeling, McGill, of Richmond, and Gattland, of Savannah. On the arrival of the procession at the Cathedral, a solemn high mass was celebrated, Bishop Kendrick, as the senior bishop present, officiating. The German Society was employed to participate in the musical services of the day. The Cathedral was hung in black and filled with a profusion of lighted candles, producing a most striking effect. It was thronged to its utmost capacity.
